

User test — Participant P 1

Date: 28 Sep 2026

Background: ☐ Non-technical ☒ Technical / research student ☐ Other: _____

Used a similar health or data app before? ☐ Yes ☒ No

T1 — Aura Screen (phone)

Success: reads their heart rate on the report

Create an account, finish setting up your record, start a contactless scan, then open your session report and tell us your heart rate.

Outcome: ☐ Completed ☒ Completed with help ☐ Failed Time: _____ s Errors: _____

Where they got confused / what they said:

Camera access was blocked in the sandbox browser, so had to tap

"Continue without camera" before the scan would start -- fine once he knew that button was there.

T2 — Study Hub website (laptop)

Success: states both heart rates + reaches the agreement step

Find the ECG data. How does heart rate differ between resting and city driving? Then start a request to access the dataset.

Outcome: ☐ Completed ☒ Completed with help ☐ Failed Time: _____ s Errors: _____

Where they got confused / what they said:

Found the resting rate fast (79 bpm, top-left card) but had to hunt for the city-driving number -- ended up eyeballing the REST/CITY chart instead (climbs toward the 90s-100+ once city driving starts). The dashboard got sluggish scrolling past the big charts.

Debrief

Most confusing moment:

The camera-permission block right before the scan -- unexpected, but

"Continue without camera" got him past it in a couple of seconds.

What would you change first?

Print the excerpt's average heart rate for REST and CITY on the ECG page directly, instead of making people scrub the timeline for it.
